The 2016 Gagliole is Sangiovese and a touch of Cabernet Sauvignon from vineyards in Panzano. Medium in body, perfumed and silky, Gagliole is a decidedly lithe, understated wine in 2016 that appears to be holding back much of its potential. There is good structure underneath. Hopefully the wine will come together a bit more with time in bottle. The 2016 spent 18 months in French oak barriques, 20% new.
