The 2015 Batarro Riserva, a varietal Gaglioppo, wafts up with notes of smoked meat, crushed stone, sage and plum skin. It's silky in texture yet lifted in feel, cooling herbal and mineral tones complementing the ripe black fruits. This turns quite tense and wiry through the finale, tapering off to purple-tinged florals and hints of balsamic spice. The Batarro will perform best at the dinner table accompanied by rich and hearty fare.
