Here's a brief trip back in time. The Terredora di Paolo 2013 Fiano di Avellino CampoRe brings us back a few years and opens a wide window onto the aging potential of this versatile and popular white grape from Campania. The bouquet offers dried citrus and peach, but the wine is almost equally characterized by crushed stone and light dustings of ash. This vintage's more evolved state points to tangy aromas of dried ginger and powdered licorice.
