The 2019 Grillo Sicilia holds your attention with a display of savory spice, sour melon, dusty yellow flowers and an enriching note of custard. It's soft with almost oily textures, backed by juicy acids and ripe orchard fruits. Although a bit one-dimensional, it finishes wonderfully fresh and clean under an air of tropical florals. This spends four months refining in acacia barrels, followed by three months in stainless steel. Important to note is that Colosi has another Grillo Sicilia in their portfolio with a different label, bottled under screw cap and matured completely in stainless steel, yet without any difference in the name or DOC designation.
